FRIENDS,

The Mortgage Bankers Association continues to be among the most sophisticated and effective trade associations in Washington, DC and that is in no small part because of your continued support of MORPAC, MBA's political action committee.

With the year more than half over, I am proud to announce that due to your support, 2015 has so far been MORPAC's biggest year yet. With that in mind, I am pleased to present the 2015 MORPAC Mid-Year Report.

This year alone we have raised over $500,000 in individual donations, out-pacing this time last cycle by nearly 9%. Together we have managed to add over 200 new MORPAC contributors, and our average contribution has increased by over $100 over last year's figure.

We continue to make great strides to increase our grassroots reach as well. The Mortgage Action Alliance (MAA) currently enjoys nearly 10,000 active members and under the leadership of MAA Chairman Fowler Williams, we are on pace to hit 12,500 by year's end.

As a show of gratitude to our dedicated contributors, this report lists all of the individuals and companies who have been a part of our 2015 campaign. In addition, you'll find itemized information about the goals our political programs have been able to achieve thus far, and a comprehensive summary of the legislative and political priorities MBA's advocacy team has been working to achieve at this point in 2015.

I hope that you will make note of the great steps we are taking with our political action committee on our industry's behalf. None of this is possible without your involvement in MORPAC, and your continued support is imperative to our success. Together, we will make this 2015–2016 fundraising cycle the best in MBA history. I appreciate and thank you for your dedication to MBA, MORPAC and our collective public policy goals.

Respectfully submitted,

Jamie Korus
President, Alliance Home Loans
2015–2016 MORPAC Chairman

FUNDRAISING METRICS

As of June 30, 2015

MORPAC raised $1.43 million in hard dollars in the 2013–2014 cycle — $130K over the goal.

Since January 2015, MORPAC has raised over $500,000 as of August 15th.

MORPAC is 7% ahead of last year's pace, and 15% ahead the previous cycle's pace.

MORPAC has hosted two individual fundraisers this year. In February, MORPAC hosted an event for Senate Banking Committee member Senator Jerry Moran (R-KS) at MBA's CREF conference. The event raised over $23,000 for the Senator's re-election. MORPAC also raised over $25,000 for Rep. Patrick McHenry (R-NC) during MBA's Secondary and Capital Markets conference in May.

MORPAC has raised

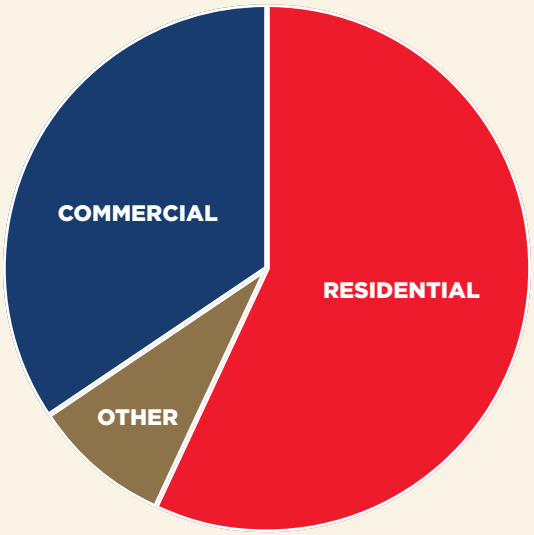
2015 MORPAC dollars have come from all areas of the industry:



LEGISLATIVE AND POLITICAL UPDATE

As we mark the fifth anniversary of the Dodd-Frank Act, it is clear how dramatically the implementation of the landmark law has impacted the industry, and how difficult the politics surrounding any potential corrections will continue to be over the near term. MBA remains engaged on a broad set of issues and possible opportunities as lawmakers work their way towards the Fall — and the budget/appropriations/debt limit discussions that will color the remaining first session of the 114th Congress.

Regulatory Relief Legislation

As was widely expected, the Senate Banking Committee ("SBC") held a contentious late May markup of Chairman Richard Shelby's (R-AL) financial regulatory reform legislation, S.1484, the Financial Regulatory Improvement Act, with the bill approved along strict party-lines (12–10 committee vote). The legislation contains a number of MBA priorities on issues ranging from GSE transition steps to QM lending standards, FHFA's FHLB membership rule, TRID, Basel III and its impact on mortgage servicing rights, and preferred SAFE Act amendments (language identical to H.R. 2121).

During the markup, SBC Democrats offered a narrower, substitute version led by Ranking Member Sherrod Brown (D-OH), which failed to pass. In the coming weeks, we expect quiet negotiations between junior SBC Republicans and moderate SBC Democrats (regarding the bill's more controversial provisions) to continue. Such a bipartisan consensus will need to be reached for any regulatory relief package to reach the Senate floor — or for any of the bill's key provisions to be considered for inclusion in "must-pass" vehicles later this year.

SAFE Act Amendments

Following the House introduction of H.R. 2121 in late April, the SAFE Transitional Licensing Act — which would provide a temporary license for loan originators between federally-insured depositories and non-depositories, as well as transitioning across state lines — we have seen a growing bipartisan number of lawmakers indicate support for the bill. Led by Representative Steve Stivers (R-OH), fellow House Financial Services committee ("HFSC") members Terri Sewell (D-AL), Lynn Westmoreland (R-GA), Joyce Beatty (D-OH), Luke Messer (R-IN), Kyrsten Sinema (D-AZ), and Ed Perlmutter (D-CO) were all original cosponsors. Since April, strong progress has been made through the bipartisan addition of 29 more cosponsors. MBA is continuing its dialogue with the Conference of State Banking Supervisors in an effort to reach consensus with the group in order to convince the House leadership to move the bill through the HFSC and to the House floor later this year.

GSE Reform

We continue to believe that neither SBC Chairman Shelby nor HFSC Chairman Jeb Hensarling (R-TX) will choose to dedicate the significant amount of political capital (or time needed to build a policy consensus) necessary to advance an issue as complicated as GSE reform this year — or this Congress. Nonetheless, several comprehensive reform proposals offered during the last Congress have reemerged. In the House, Reps. John Delaney (D-MD), John Carney (D-DE) and Jim Himes (D-CT) reintroduced their proposal (H.R. 1491, the Partnership to Strengthen Homeownership Act), which utilizes Ginnie Mae an a guarantor and to regulate the conventional market. Senator Johnny Isakson (R-GA) reintroduced his proposal, S. 495, the Mortgage Finance Act, which winds down the GSEs through orderly receivership and creates a new facility to guarantee securitizations of QRM mortgages.

Chairman Hensarling has made recent public statements that he is open to discussions with the White House and Treasury officials to reach possible consensus on more limited GSE transition steps. MBA-supported provisions to prohibit the sale of GSE preferred shares, prevent the use of GSE guarantee fees (g-fees) for non-housing-related purposes, direct the FHFA Director to finalize a Common Securitization Platform by a time certain, and require the FHFA Director to direct the GSEs to engage in mandatory first loss risk sharing transactions were all included in Title VII of the Shelby regulatory relief package.

THUD Appropriations

In early June, the Fiscal Year ("FY") 2016 Transportation, Housing and Urban Development ("THUD") funding bill (H.R. 2577) passed the full House by a vote of 216–210. At MBA's urging, HUD's request to receive authority to fund a portion of FHA's administrative costs through an up-to 4 bps lender fee assessment was not included in the bill. We were also pleased that the measure again excluded a HUD proposal that would have allowed state Housing Finance Agencies expanded access to Ginnie Mae multifamily loan securitization in the context of FHA's Section 542(c) and Section 542(b) programs, and maintained a prohibition on federal funds being used to facilitate eminent domain seizures of performing FHA and Ginnie Mae mortgage loans. Significantly, the bill also contained an adequate level of commitment authority ($30B) for FHA's multifamily and health care programs.

In late June, the full Senate Appropriations Committee considered and reported its alternative version of the FY16 THUD bill by a bipartisan 20-10 vote. The bill mirrored its House counterpart with respect to the aforementioned MBA priorities, and included report language regarding the FHA administrative fee that directly acknowledges MBA's lobbying efforts, as follows:

"The Committee is disappointed that the budget request proposing a new fee to offset administrative costs is the same [HUD] language as in fiscal year 2015. Numerous concerns were raised by stakeholders in reaction to the 2015 request, yet the 2016 budget request fails to address those concerns. As such, the Committee does not include authority for HUD to charge a fee to provide additional funds to address FHA's administrative costs… Finally, the Committee encourages FHA and its partners to work together to address these challenges."

Additionally, the Senate bill detailed specific concerns about proposed changes to the Project Capital Needs Assessment (PCNA) requirements for multifamily lenders. Within the bill, HUD has been directed to report to the House and Senate Appropriations Committees as to the "merits of continuing" HUD's recommended PCNA changes. In particular, the report from HUD would include a review of changes to the initial reserve calculations and replacement reserve calculations, and a recommendation on whether a clearer definition of intrusive testing requirements would "benefit HUD and lenders without creating additional risk."

The Senate THUD bill will likely not receive floor consideration, but instead be rolled into eventual House/Senate discussions surrounding a Continuing Resolution and/or a year-end omnibus spending measure designed to fund the entire federal government.

Tax Reform/Extenders

In late July, the Senate Finance Committee released the reports from its five working groups addressing various aspects of comprehensive tax reform. While the Individual Income Tax Working Group held stakeholder briefings on homeownership incentives in the tax code (MBA participated in one of these briefings), the group chose to focus solely on Charitable Giving, Higher Education and Tax Administration issues in its final report.

Additionally, the Community Development and Infrastructure Working Group's jurisdiction included coverage of the LIHTC and tax-exempt bonds, including Housing Bonds. The Working Group's report includes descriptions of the LIHTC and Bond programs, but, importantly, does not offer options or recommendations for changes to them. While it remains highly unlikely that Congress will undertake comprehensive tax reform before the 2016 general election, the working group reports could serve as the foundation for any reform efforts in future years.

House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Paul Ryan (R-WI) recently reported that Congress should move quickly on tax extenders in order to avoid the end-of-year rush that left Congress renewing expired tax cuts for just a few weeks at the end of last year. House Democrats remain opposed to efforts to make extenders permanent, arguing that the revenue losses must be offset. House Republicans are opposed to raising taxes in other areas to pay for extenders.

At this writing, the Senate Finance Committee has completed a markup of a two-year package of extenders. As in past years, the two-year package (tax years 2015 and 2016) includes an exclusion from taxable income for mortgage debt that is canceled or forgiven, the continued deductibility of mortgage insurance premiums, and an extension of provisions related to Low Income Housing Tax Credit allocations. MBA will lobby to insure these extender priorities are included in whatever the House and Senate may ultimately reconcile and send to the President's desk.

Housing-Related "Pay-fors"

At the end of July, the President signed into law a three month funding extension of the Highway Trust Fund that, thanks in part to MBA lobbying efforts and pressure from the Mortgage Action Alliance, did not include a controversial provision which would have funded transportation spending by extending a previous temporary increase in Fannie Mae's and Freddie Mac's guarantee fees (g-fees). Unfortunately, despite MBA's efforts, the Senate did pass a long-term extension that contained this provision and would fund spending for the next three years by extending the previous increase in g-fees by four years. The House will work to craft its own version of a long-term highway reauthorization and negotiate with Senate leaders on a compromise bill by the end of October — when the three month extension would expire.

MBA has continued to lobby both the House and the Senate to ensure that any final long-term extension does not contain a g-fee increase extension or any other housing-related "revenue grabs."

Flood Insurance

Senate Banking Committee members Dean Heller (R-NV) and Jon Tester (D-MT) and House Financial Services Committee members Dennis Ross (R-FL) and Patrick Murphy (D-FL) introduced the Flood Insurance Market Parity and Modernization Act in July. Having supported such efforts in the past, MBA sent letters of support for the House (H.R. 2901) and Senate bills (S. 1679) at the request of the authors. The legislation provides additional access to an expanded set of flood insurance coverage options by providing incentives to accelerate the development of a private flood insurance market (with consumer protections overseen by state insurance regulators).

Disparate Impact

In late June, the U.S. Supreme Court handed down its ruling in the case of Texas Department of Housing and Community Affairs v. Inclusive Communities Project, Inc. The court held in a 5–4 decision that disparate impact claims can be brought under the Fair Housing Act. On the legislative front, during debate on the THUD appropriations bill, the House passed a floor amendment offered by Representative Scott Garrett (R-NJ) that would block the agency's disparate impact rule. As we've done the last two years, MBA led a joint trade letter in support of the amendment, which passed by a largely partisan vote of 231 to 195. The House also passed another MBA-supported Garrett amendment that would prevent the Justice Department from using disparate impact as the basis of litigation. The Garrett language has traditionally faced stiff opposition from the Senate (expected again).

High Volatility Commercial Real Estate Exposures

MBA, in conjunction with allied trades, has been lobbying targeted congressional offices to discuss concerns about the Basel III treatment of high volatility commercial real estate exposures (HVCRE). HVCRE loan status requires a higher capital charge for acquisition, development and construction (ADC) loans that, among other things, have a loan-to-value ratio of greater than 80 percent and less than 15 percent equity contribution by the borrower. MBA is concerned that tight restrictions placed on ADC loans could result in the unwarranted higher capital treatment for many ADC loans, which could negatively impact bank ADC lending decisions.

MBA has also raised strong concerns with the Federal Reserve, Comptroller of the Currency, and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and is seeking guidance from these agencies that would provide greater flexibility for the structuring of ADC loans to avoid HVCRE status. This is part of a broader strategy to raise the issue directly with Members of Congress in hopes that they will also weigh in with regulators.

Single-Family FHA Legislative Reforms

In the House, HFSC Chair Hensarling and other committee Republicans continue to take an aggressive stance with HUD Secretary Castro, having been highly critical of the agency and calling for major reforms to its signature programs (including FHA) in hearings held thus far this year. Despite the heavy criticism, we continue to believe there is little chance that either Hensarling or SBC Chairman Shelby will seek to advance "PATH Act"-style reforms (or even more measured changes) in Congress this year.

QM "Points and Fees"

MBA's efforts to provide lenders greater flexibility to fit loans under the QM definition's strict three percent cap on points and fees (e.g., changes to escrow calculations and affiliated title company exclusions) again cleared an initial hurdle when H.R. 685, once again championed by HFSC member Bill Huizenga (R-MI), passed the House in mid-April by a bipartisan vote of 286–140. In the Senate, SBC Chairman Shelby's committee-passed regulatory relief bill also contains modified language that would exclude escrow for future insurance payments from the computation of points and fees.
